1984 Dedication

Driving up Wellesley St. on September 1, 1980, we spotted the stately, black Regis College sign and felt our hearts drop; feelings of anxiety, apprehension and excitement mingled as we tried to compose ourselves for this first day. Freshmen-even the name spelled fear. Then, a hand reached over from the driver's seat and gave our own a comforting pat. Breathing a sigh of relief, we remembered that we were not alone-our "parents", be they mothers, fathers, family members or friends, were with us.

While we were meeting new roommates and making friends, Mom and Dad joked and laughed, helping to smooth over awkward silences. After assisting and preparing us to settle into the foreign world of college, our parents did us the biggest favor-they said "goodbye", giving a group of nervous, teenage girls the space and time to become confident, well-educated women.

This development began in our freshman year when those of us living on campus suffered bouts of homesickness while learning to adjust to dormitory living and cafeteria food. Those of us who commuted from home took our first step into maturity and began assuming the academic and social responsibilities of college.

Parent's Weekend arrived and we welcomed our parents, not with fears but with eagerness to introduce them to friends and invite them to share in our college experiences. Exclaiming with wonder over our sparsely decorated rooms, Mom and Dad marveled at how independent and determined their daughter had become and we hid our smiles of pleasure.

During freshman year we needed our parents in a special way but they remained faithful throughout the next three as well. We cherished the hours of "girl talk" with Mom at the Mother-Daughter Dinners and "gigged" on the dance floor with Dad at the annual Father-Daughter extravaganzas. Our parents both pleased and embarrased us with their public exclamations about their "Regis daughter" and their insistence on racing up the Chapel aisle to snap our pictures at the Junior Ring and Cap and Gown ceremonies. They have lent their support through the Regis College Guild and the Father's Association and in so many other ways we have taken for granted and could never express in words.

Now, our four years are over. Finally, we are seniors and nearer to being the "confident and well educated" women we have been preparing to be. However, we could never have reached this point in our lives without the continued and unfailing emotional, financial and spiritual support of those who have "parented" us. It is for their innumerable votes of confidence and never ending faith in us that we dedicate our 1984 Yearbook to our parents.

"Bands Of Memories"

The juniors filed in,
Marching silently one by one.
The smiles they wore reflected
The circle just begun.

The ceremony of the ring
Which joined the junior class,
Marks the unity we share.
The bond that holds us fast.

We accepted and met the challenges
And therefore earned the right
To wear our college symbol
With honor and delight.

It was here the child in us
Was forced to step aside.
We are now Regis women
Who wear our rings with pride.

Our joys. Our triumphs. These pages are testimony to the best of times. The laughter and love that we have shared through our four years at Regis find new life in every photo, poem and prayer in this book. We will never forget the friendships we have cultivated here though times and miles may come between us.

Yet, we have also shared disappointments and frustrations at Regis and these too are recorded in this book. We have found that it can hurt to grow, to learn, to change. At times we have cried and struggled, but ultimately we have endured, becoming stronger and gentler.

It is now time for us to share with the world what we have shared with each other. We will experience new joys and new triumphs, as we continue to grow, to learn, to change. We will also experience fresh disappointments and frustrations which will test our gentleness and strength. And if we ever need to be reminded that we are loved or that we are capable of loving, all we need do is look through this book and remember what we have learned and shared: our triumphs, our joys.

Cap And Gown

Wrinkled hands budge the dusty lid
Of an old trunk.
Hinges creak a loud overture.
Gnarled fingers caress the folds of a faded black gown and
The tassle of a flattened cap.

Wistfully, the mind wanders,
Through a lingering scent of mothballs
To a misty morning
When we, in the youth of our maturity,
Walked in cap and gown
Towards the becoming of ourselves.

Burgeoning acorns, ripe on the trees,
Break from their bowers.
Time perennial in its vicissitudes
Frees nothing in its grip
Excluding thoughts-
Which, when given wings,
Soar to the universe.

Although we fear what may be,
We are who we are.
The sun shoots its rays
Through the mist.

The trunk is closed.
On the lined face
A tear and a smile.
She remembers that youth of our maturity,
When we have the wings
To soar!

SOCIOLOGY / SOCIAL WORK

The Department of Sociology is involved in the intergration of the study of sociology with historical and cultural phenomena in such a way as to encourage students to explore their own "world" sociologically, and by doing so, arouse an awareness and understanding of human needs and social problems as they pertain to the society and the individual and the possibility of change.

The Social Work program at Regis College, directed by Paula Schneider demands absolute committment and dedication from the students who choose this course of study. The number of women involved in the program is limited, which may be some indication of the intensity of the program. Outside of the normal academic expectations of the college and the majority of concentrations, it is essential that Social Work majors do an intensive internship consisting of 400 hours of "on the job training." This dual role of student and intern requires a great degree of devotion. Still eleven women chose this field less than two years ago and eleven women will graduate in May 1984 with a degree in Social Work. In and of itself this seems to substantiate the effectiveness and credibility of the Social Work program at Regis College.

PSYCHOLOGY

S. Therezon Sheerin
Chairperson

The Psychology Department at Regis offers a wide range of fields of study to coincide with the diverse backgrounds of its department members. This natural science department is developed through the minds of S. Therezon Sheerin (Chairperson), Dr. Walsh, Dr. Foley, S. Viterbo McCarthy and Dr. Gribbons. Through course studies these educators provide lectures, laboratories, seminars, and independent studies, to prepare Regis women for a wide range of career options.

It is at this time we would like to say "good bye" to Dr. Warren Gribbons and thank him for his wisdom and dedication to the Regis Community. We would, also like to send warm wishes to his wife who accompanies him on his long walks and his swims in the pool. The Gribbons family will be missed by all.

LANGUAGES

The French Department believes that it is the rendez-vous of an universal elite. Conversation in la belle langue francaise unites us in scholarship, literature, history, the fine arts, and life. In life that is sane and in life that is absurd. Nothing lies exterior to our area of interest, and no one. Our work is our joy and our joy is our work.

"Italy is notoriously distinquished. Her past is glorious, her achievements are dazzling, her traditions noble, her fame awe-inspiring, and her charm irresistible. I have known her and admired her for a long time. I love her dearly."

HISTORY/CLASSICS

S. Betty Cawley
Chairperson

In a time of increased specialization there is need for the broader view provided by liberal learning, because they touch so many of the aspects of human experience — language, religion, art, literature, philosophy, history, archaeology, — Classical Studies provides this broad view.

In addition to providing the depth and breadth of understanding to be knowledgable in the fast-paced society of the 80's, the study of History teaches very important skills which are the requisites of efficient performance in the work world; e.g. research and analysis, critical thinking and reasoning, and oral and written communication of ideas.

ENGLISH EDUCATION

Mrs. Mary Malany
chairperson

Courses in English language, and literature prepare the Regis student for life in a variety of fields. The values of writers in our culture from the author of Beowulf to T.S. Eliot furnish a background to carry into family and professional careers. Study in writing makes the Regis graduate articulate and persuasive as well.

BIOLOGY

The Biology curriculum ensures a broad background with an opportunity to pursue interests in such areas as genetics, development, biochemistry, etc. Courses are not designed simply to convey information, rather through lectures, laboratories, seminars, and independent study, one is able to experience the process by which scientific knowledge is acquired. Not only does the curriculum contribute to one's liberal education, but also provides training which serves as a basic preparation for a broad range of career options.

PHYSICS/MATHEMATICS

The Regis College Mathematics Department offers students the opportunity to further their knowledge in the field of mathematics. This natural science department is inspired by the leadership of Dr. S. Williamson. Dr. Williamson along with with her colleagues Dr. J. Criscenti, Mr. J. Hennen, and S. Joan Duffy shed light on such topics as Algebra, Calculus, Topology, Intermediate Analysis, Statistics, Number Theory, Geometry and the History of Mathematics. An area that is interwoven with this department is the Computer Science Division of Regis College. Here Dr. L. Kovijanic instructs the students in various computer languages which are becoming popular in today's computerized society. After diligently studying these fields for four years the Regis graduate goes forth with a Bachelor of Arts degree in Mathematics to confidently begin a career or to vigorously continue her education.

- To Make a Difference "We may imagine perhaps that creation was finished long ago. This is not true. It continues more graciously than ever . . . . and we serve to complete it, even with the humblest work of our hands . . . In each of our works we labor, in a very minute but real way to build the Pleroma. . . . In action I adhere to the creative power of God. I coincide with it; I become not only its instrument but its living extension."

ART/MUSIC

S. Louisella Walters

The Art Department provides students with the basic theory and practice necessary to become creative teachers, art historians, museum and gallery curators, painters, print-makers, and photographers. To assure its majors of future success in such careers, an experienced and talented faculty carefully advise students into those areas in which they demonstrate the greatest potential. The department is equally attentive to a broad spectrum of non-majors who learn how to draw meaningful relationships between art and the natural and social sciences.

S. Marie deSales Dineen

The Music Department promotes the discovery and understanding of Music as (1) a significant area of knowledge, (2) a fine art and (3) a component of all types of human activity. It provides courses in Music and contributes Music for all types of campus occasions, such as Concerts Liturgies, and Special College Days (i.e. Cap and Gown Service, Admissions Day).

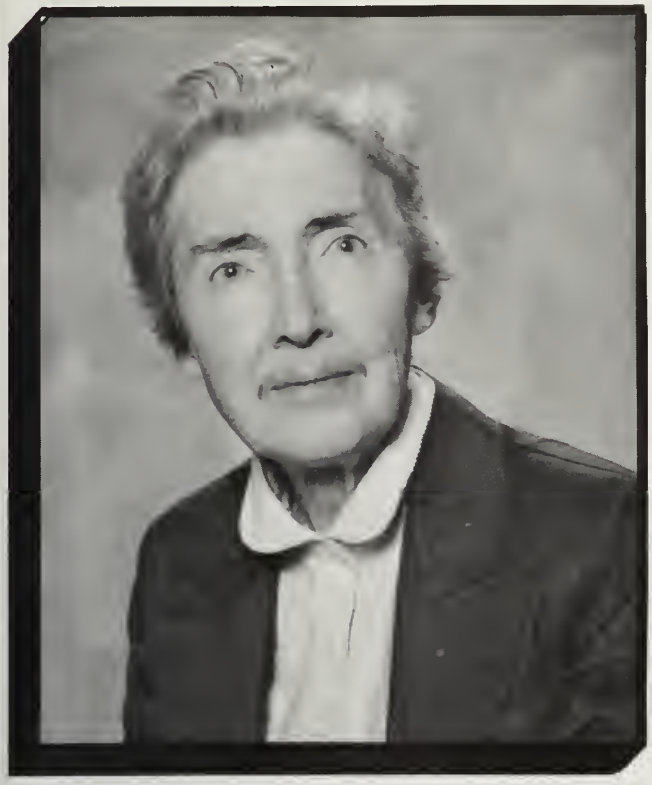
DRAMA/COMMUNICATIONS



S. Gretchen Bogan
Chairperson

The Drama Department is introduced by S. Gretchen Bogan. Sister provides a woman with open option to develop her theatrical talents for use in in business and theatre.

S. Joan Murray
Chairperson

The Communications Department led by S. Joan Murray offers students an added diversity to their majors. The Communications program allows students to develop skills in areas of writing, speaking, lighting, and other aspects to modern media. These skills are an added option for the women preparing to make a difference.

Dario Anes said to a yearbook columnist recently, that there was an unidentified gentleman wandering around campus dressed as one of Santa's elves. Although this claim could not be proven, this picture was submitted by an anonymous source who claimed that he is often seen in other modes of dress, even as a priest. This picture appears to have been taken in our own Domitilla Hall. Carbon dating experts gave the yearbook staff estimations of the time at which this picture was taken. Daria's sighting does coincide with the time given by carbon dating personnel. The case has now been turned over to Regis Security for further investigation.

Regis College Glee Club

The Glee Club

The Regis College Glee Club is one of the largest organizations on campus, containing fifty-two members. It affords members the opportunity to meet people sharing common interests, both in our own club and in various other choral groups. The Glee Club, together with its select group, the Chamber Singers, follows a very busy schedule throughout the year. This fall they performed a winter concert with Fairfield University and a vespers service with Worcester Polytechnical Institute. The Chamber Singers staged three selections "A Chorus Line" which was enjoyed by all at the faculty-trustee banquet. Regis traveled to New York in February to sing with Union College and, in turn hosted Union at Regis later in the season. The Club finished off the year a spring concert with Villanova

Prepping The Well-Rounded Student

Hemetera

Hemetera is Regis' literary/arts magazine published once a year. Consisting of poetry, prose, and art work of the Regis community, Hemetera—"Our Own"—has been a Regis publication since 1947. The editors of the Hemetera: Daria Anes, Nancy Lee, and Kim O'Gorman want to acknowledge the loyal cooperation of their staff. With their help, the Hemetera expects to publish a fine issue. The staff members are: Holly Kendrick, Nadene Cerqua, Tricia McAuley, Sue Doucette, Patty Ventura, Michelle Arsenault, Jo-mel Cinta, Noreen Baker, Kathi Brooks, Claire McCusker, Missy Carnevale, Connie McDonald and Amy Van Veen.

The Economics Club

The Economics Club is an active organization which educates the Regis Community about Economics and related fields. Activities include speakers at Regis, trips to speakers at surrounding colleges, trips to financial institutions, and an economics tutoring program. Officers are: president, Christine Murphy,, vice-president, Irene Sung, treasurer, Marybeth Ramei, and secretary, Sandy Mitchell.

The Economics Club congratulates the members of the Class of 1984, and wishes them much success and happiness for the future!

The Literati Club

The Literati Club, Regis' official organization of the English provides English majors with the opportunity to discuss, evaluate and enjoy creative, literary works. This past semester, the Literati Club sponsored wine and cheese get-togethers for both faculty and students. The Club also enjoyed an evening at the "Nutcracker" during the Christmas season.

The Management Club

The newest academic concentration at Regis (Management) has been complemented with the Management Club this year. A group of management majors led by Joan Florentino, president, Maureen Hegarty, vice-president, Megan McGaldrick, treasurer and Audrey Cavelle, secretary, this young club is making plans for an "Executive Party", visits to business organizations and speakers in the field of management.

United Nations Club

Every year the Regis United Nations Club joins 1400 other college students from across the United States, Canada and Puerto Rico in New York City to take on the roles of delegates in the United Nations. In public debate and behind-the-scenes negotiating we tackle some of the most pressing problems on the international agenda. For five days we immerse ourselves in committee activities, while at the same time attempting to explore the Big Apple. Our memories: Amtrack; a snowstorm in April; getting up at 6:00 a.m., after going to bed at 5:00 a.m.; committee meetings until 11:30 p.m.; Hyatt roomservice; the PLO party; strawberry daquiries; meeting new friends. Good luck class of 1984!

Regis Herald

The Regis Herald is a student organized newspaper dedicated to serving the Regis community throught its monthly publications. The Regis Herald is coordinated by the eight editors with help from the staff. Co-editors NancyLee, senior and Catherine Asciati, junior, oversee the complete operational process of each issue. Co-managine Editors, Theresa Maia, senior, and Mary Cashell, junior, handle all financial matters and advertising. The other editors are: arts editor Jamie Marie Sheerin, features editor, Claire McCusker, photography editor, Donna M. Galaski and sports editor, Kathy Minihane. All of the Regis Herald editors express their sincere appreciation for all contributions and assistance, because without you, the Regis Herald would not be possible!

The German Club

Der Deutsche Verein (The German Club) sponsors many cultural events every year both on and off campus. At Adventzeit a wreath is hung in the foyer and each week a new candle is lit by a member from each class. The Weihnachtsfest, traditionally held on Sankstnicksalaustag, December 6th, at Morrison House, is said to be one of the better events on campus at Christmastime. Der Deutsche Verein sponsors German films, which are shown on campus, and also makes off campus trips to view German films at the Goethe Institute and the Museum of Fine arts in Boston. An Abschiedsessen is held at the end of the academic year to say Auf Wiedersehen to the graduating seniors in the Club, and reflect on the events of the past year.

Tower Tavern

Every Thursday, Regis students gather at Tower Tavern, the College's Pub, for a night of laughter, conversation and making new friends. This year has been especially successful as the number of party-goers has grown. Senior bartenders Peggy Keegan, Sue Shea and Daria Vigliano extend best wishes and gratitude to those who have made T.T. a lasting and happy memory. To the Class of 1984, the Tower Tavern Committee and Baz Scaggs give their traditional farewell: "Best of friends never part."

The Drama Society

The Drama Society is a small, creative group of women with big ambitions! With its annual productions (including this year's The Effects of Gamma Rays on Man-in-the-Moom Marigolds) aspiring Regis actresses have been given the chance to perform and shine in the spotlight. Shakespeare once stated that all the world is a stage and we are just actors playing a part. Seniors, use the Drama Society as inspiration and play your parts well. You are all certainly deserving of "applause, applause!"

The International Club

The International Club of Regis has been one of the most active organizations on campus. Members consist of students from different parts of the world. This club has participated in a variety of activities including ski trips, a fashion show with Saks and activities with other International Club of Boston. The International Club wishes to thank its officers: Raza Vaswani, president, Stefania Carleo, vice-president, Mariana Benitez, treasurer, and Michelle Lavergne, secretary. We extend our motto to the Class of 1984, "Let's make the world together."

Campus Ministry

The Regis College Campus Ministry is a student-run organization under the direction of Father Robert Knapp and Karen D'Alesio. There are twenty-eight student representatives on the ministry team, including eucharistic ministers and lectors. All students are encouraged to take an active role in the Mass. The ministry reponds to the needs of the Regis Community in many ways. The ministry lends it support to other organizations on campus, including Campus Outreach, S.G.A., and NUWAG.

Campus Outreach

Campus Outreach defines its main purposes as providing service and love to needy community members. A caring club, Campus Outreach shared tricks and treats, this past fall, with underprivileged children at its Hallaween party. Club members spread cheer and shared laughter at a social for special needs adults and has unrelentlessly gathered edible good with their numerous food drives.

American Chemical Society

This year has been a success for the American Chemical Society. It has included tours of laboratories, speakers, the alumnae reunion, the Chrismas banquet and, of course, the senior's forewell party. We would like to thank our officers: Sandy Smith, president, Morgaret Stakes, vice-president, Regina Viso, treasurer and Katherine Scanlan, secretary. A special appreciation is also extended to all of those who helped and sponsored us in our numerous raffles and activities, especially S. Cobrini whos guidance and understanding we will miss. Good luck to the new officers and members of next year's A.C.S.!

The Nuclear Weapons Awareness Group

The Nuclear Weapons Awareness Group is an active club dedicated to the growing concern of the Nuclear Arms build-up. We encourage involvement through discussions, speakers, literature, films and marches. It is our hope that through knowledge and participation we can make our world more peaceful.

The Biology Club

The backbone of the Biology Club is made up of the officers: Nora Lerscher, president, Maria Zeidel, vice-president, Daria Vigliana, secretary and Kathleen O'Shoughnessy, treasurer. Their enthusiasm combined with member participation made such exciting events as the Hollaween raffle, Thanksgiving turkey raffle and the trip to Dow Chemical successful and worthwhile. Along with their advisor, S. Cobrini Angelli, Biology Club members celebrated the end of first semester with their annual Christmas banquet. Biology Club seniors wish good luck and success to next year's Club.

The History Club

The History Club has proudly been a vital part of Regis College for several yeors. With the help of our faculty adviser, Dr. Vera Laska, we have presented interesting lectures for the students at Regis. The History Club would like to take this opportunity to wish all the members of the Class of 1984, but especially our seniors - Terry, Sue, Leslie and Leah, a happy and prosperous future. Good luck!

A poem or phrase cannot simply speak to the staff or to the Class of 1984 of the friendship that binds this book together. Day to day frustrations did arise, but the faith of friends has held this book tightly together. With patience for pages and understanding for glue, we have woven together the memories of our days of preparation.

At this time, we thank the Class of 1984 for being the dynamic subject of Mount Regis 1984. Our special thanks to all those who have lived the yearbook during its production. We have put our friendship to the ultimate test, and the Class of 1984 as a whole will now benefit. We now know a deeper camaraderie and are truly grateful.

Dorothy Simmons

Reflections by Sister A. Catherine Murphy, CSJ, at Mass of Christian Burial, October 3, 1983, Regis College Chapel, Weston, MA.

Dorothy Simmons, lovely gentle lady who loved Regis College (she said it with a hard "g"), is here today rather to her surprise, and I hope, not to her displeasure. Dorothyruth Kragseth Simmons, born in Norway, came to this country in her late teens. Deaf from childhood, she somehow made that handicap positive, using her inability to hear, to place the burden on herself to carry on a lively conversation that needed no response. But there was a deep sadness, a regret that she was really unable to really talk to anyone. "If only I could use the telephone", she'd say. But charming observations about life, people, nature, were always ready when she had a listener. And often in general conversation that was difficult. But in the several times when Dorothy joined in a small group, we were treated to stories of her youth in Norway, and to the history of the Norwegian nation-vignettes about the little Crown Prince whom Dorothy and her friends watched through the big iron fence as he was learning to skate and kept falling down, only to be lifted up by his valets. And Dorothy's wry remark - "the rest of us had to scramble up ourselves - and it was better for us, don't you think so?" Dorothy's life was totally given to unobtrusive service - exquisitely given. For years she cared for the Chaplain's house, and only very recently was she unable to continue to work for others.

This concern for others was vividly manifest in her days in the hospital when she would tell her nurses to sit down, to rest, and ask them if they weren't bored just being there with her. And the truth was quite otherwise. They tried at times to get beyond her line of vision, because as long as she could see them, she felt she had to entertain them. She shared her family history and told them about Regis - and described our new nursing program to them, so they asked for brochures.

Dorothy was a travel buff - as her mail attested - she loved to travel, to see people, to experience the variety of hotels and meals. Her spritely way made her a delightful traveling companion and she always made her way somehow with any new group.

But she truly was glad to return to Regis - to her plants, her flowers, her two beautiful antique dolls that she had as a child and that sit together in a child's chair in her room.

Regis was Dorothy's life, - her limited social life, and when we had various functions at Morrison House, she would clap her hands and say "Don't you love to have people around?" And she had a profound and rich spiritual life here. She was a member of the Regis College community, always present at Sunday Mass, fully participating in the Eucharist, always meticulously groomed and dressed in her own inimitable fashion.

And so it is fitting that we meet her once more here in this Chapel - even though in her generosity and sensitivity she had planned otherwise. She had donated her body to Harvard Medical School - who was unable to accept it. She had hoped that they might be able through discovery of the cause of her deafness to help other children. But also she said "I don't want to be a bother to anyone - and I have no family, so it's easier that way."

Dorothy was never a bother, quite the reverse - and the adage "As you live, so shall you die" was never more true. Dorothy's last weeks were ones of utter patience, sensitivity - always asking about the other - never complaining of her own exhaustion - just so sad to be wasting all that time in bed.

Dorothy is at peace - her heart was ready, O God, for you - and now she sees and hears all things clearly, the Lord lights her darkness and gives to her ears the beauty of the sounds far beyond those she never heard on earth. Dorothy, continue to remember and love Regis.

Dorothy Simmons Celebrates 25 Years At Regis College

by Pat Gagliardo

As Regis celebrates its 50th anniversary during this jubilee year, we have been exposed to the rich history of our college in a variety of ways through displays, movies, slide presentations, etc. These programs have all been very successful in tapping the sources of our rich history here at Regis

But I think one of the best ways to recapture those times of the past is to talk to people who have lived through them. Dorothy Simmons is such a person. Dorothy Simmons come to Regis College in 1952 and carries a wealth of experience and knowledge with her, not only about the Regis of old, but also of campus life today She possesses a rich personal heritage of her own as well.

Mrs. Simmons was born in Oslo, Norway and moved to the United States when she was 18 years old She lived in Massachusetts in the town of Norwood for a time and then moved to California for a few years. She eventually ended up back in Massachusetts, and in 1952 settled here at Regis She has worked all these years as a general housekeeper for the chaplain's house and for other buildings on campus, and has made her residence in the Morrison House for nearly 25 years

Mrs Simmons has traveled extensively throughout her life and her sunny sitting room is decorated with treasures and memorabilia from all over the world Also in this room, and in other rooms, hang paintings which are the work of her father Besides taking a trip back to her homeland of Norway, about 12 years ago, Mrs Simmons has traveled extensively to other parts of the world

She has been on eight ocean cruises, including several to the Caribbean Islands. Just this past summer she spent some time in South America She speaks of the various oceanliners and ships she has been on with great excitement Not only does Mrs. Simmons have stories to tell about her voyage or sea, but also of her experiences here at Regis

When she arrived in 1952 there were only three or four buildings on campus. the Morrison House, the art building (which used to serve as a carriage house), the chaplain's house and College Hall She mentioned that flower beds surrounded the tower at that time and that a gardener was hired by the college for $10.00 a week to groom the flower beds

The crowning of the May queen was a special event and she remembers, quite vividly, the springtime procession to the back of the tower Mrs Simmons continued by saying that it was quite a sight and that Archbishop Cushing (who later became a cardinal) would always be present on such special occasions. She remembers the Cardinal as "a relaxed and pleasant man."

Mrs. Simmons also spoke about the day to day life at the college Mass was held at 7:00 every morning in the chapel and freshmen were required to attend She commented that the sisters conducted matters of the college in nearly all areas during those years

During my talk with Mrs Simmons she mentioned that Regis has changed quite a bit since her arrival here almost 25 years ago. She enjoyed the smallness of the school then but says that she would never want things to go back to the way they were As my visit with Mrs. Simmons was coming to an end I asked her if she could sum up her views of how Regis has changed over the years She replied that although the school is larger now, it still operates under the same principles as it did in those days she so fondly remembers

We Are The Class Of 1984. We Were The Children Raised On Both The Impossible Dream And The Orwellian Prophecy. As Infants We Entered This World In The Midst Of The Vietnam Conflict Confirming By Our Presence That Life And Joy Is Preferable To War And Death. While We Were Toddlers We Listened As The World Cried In Sorrow Over The Assasination Of Two Great Men, John F. Kennedy And Martin Luther King. Their Dreams Of Equality And Fraternity Inspired People All Over The World To Develop A Deeper Concern And Respect For Their Brothers And Sisters Of All Nations, And Colours, And Though These Men Died, Their Dreams Did Not. In Our Formative Years We Witnessed The Miracles Of Modern Technology And Science As We Watched The First Human Set Foot On The Moon. Here On Earth, We Were Awed By The First Human Heart Transplant. Shortly After This, We Waded Through The Political Chaos Of Watergate And We Wondered If Our System And Its Rulers Would Ever Right Itself. As Teenagers, We Waited Out The Hostage Crisis In Iran, And Learned Valuable Lessons About Politics, Economics And Moral Responsiblity. We Experienced All Of These Events, And Many Others, In Our First Eighteen Years Of Life. But At Eighteen Years Of Age We Decided To Continue To Grow, To Expand Our Horizons And We Came To Regis College.

While At Regis, We Became Again Aware Of The Flaws In Humankind As Two Assassination Attempts Were Made Within Days Of Each Other, On The Life Of Both Pope John Paul II And President Ronald Reagan. We Also Became Dismayed By The Potential Abuse Of Nuclear Power And Weapons, And We Are Still Seeking A Viable Solution To The Problems Of The Disposal Of Nuclear Waste As Well As A Solution To The Problem Of Nuclear Responsibility. However, Our Years At Regis Have Not Just Been Plagued With Problems. We Have Seen Great Strides Being Made By Women And Other Minorities. We Cheered As Sally Ride Became The First American Female Astronaut To Go Into Space. We Were Tremendously Impressed By The Grace And Beauty Of Vanessa Williams, The First Black Miss America. We've Developed A Great Respect For Women Athletes, Especially The Women Who Strive For And Often Achieve Excellence, Such As Joan Benoit, Mary Decker, And Martina Navritolova. Perhaps The Most Incredible Victory And Sweetest Piece Of Justice Was Achieved By Barbara MacClintoch, Who Won The 1983 Nobel Prize In Science For Her Work, Which Had Been Previously Ignored By The Male Scientific Community. Overall, We Have Come To See Great Strides Being Made By Both Women And Men As Humankind Attempts To Better Itself. The Foundation Has Been Well Laid For Us As We Go On And Achieve In The Fashion Of Our Predecessors. If We Learn Well From The Lessons They've Taught Us, Twenty Years From Now A Regis Woman Will Be Writing About Us And The Contributions Of The Class Of 1984.

That Woman is a Success . . . .

Who loves life and lives life to the fullest; who has discovered and shared the strengths and talents that are uniquely her own; who puts her best into each task and leaves each situation better that she found it;
who seeks and finds that which is beautiful in all people . . . and in all things; whose heart is full of love and warm with compassion; who has found joy in living and peace within herself.

Barbara J. Barrow

BEST WISHES FROM THE STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

God asks no woman whether she will accept life. That is not the choice. She must take it. The only choice is HOW. GOOD LUCK SENIORS!!

It takes more than words
To let you know
How much it means to me
To have you as my Friends
I can depend on you for understanding
When I am confused
I can depend on you for comfort
When I am sad
I can depend on you for laughter
When I am Happy
I am so thankful
To Know that you are ALWAYS
